Waveland accuses Bay commissioner of manipulation

by Dan Barber

The board of aldermen and mayor of Waveland Tuesday night demanded that the city of Bay St. Louis give a "clear explanation" of the method by which the city intends to change assessment rolls to meet a projected $71,000 deficit in the 1974-75 Bay-Waveland school budget.

The body also asked that Bay St.

Louis tax assessor Clarence Ladner cite the state law giving the city authority to "manipulate" the said changes in the assessment rolls.

City Attorney Lucien Gex Jr. was instructed specifically to insert the word "manipulate" into the phrasing of the resolution, which passed unanimously, after board members obviously angry over a past week's proceedings regarding tax increases to meet the school budget accused Ladner of double talk during explanation of how assessments would be adjusted.

Alderman Ducre Bourgeois angrily stating that the present tax law which allows the city of Bay St. Louis to set taxes for the city of Waveland was unconstitutional seconded another resolution asking for state legislators to investigate the dual school system and taxation in the two municipalities.

"The law is going to have to be changed so that the city of Waveland has representation," Bourgeois said. "This law is unconstitutional where one man can come into another municipality and raise taxes."

Ladner stated last week that he intended to undertake an equalization of tax rolls in an effort to make assessments fairer. Ladner said that he felt such adjustments would generate the added revenue needed for the school budget.

Waveland Mayor John Longo said he felt such equalizations amounted to little more than a tax raise. Longo has been against any increase in taxes to finance what he has termed a "padded" school budget.

"Assessments are presently around $20 million," Longo said. "If you equalize assessments you will still come up with $20 million. But what they want to do is come up with four or five million more."

"I would just like to know what law the tax assessor (Ladner) is using to equalize and raise taxes at the same time," the mayor said.

Gex said if the assessment were illegal the city could take some action, but that the city of Waveland could do nothing for the moment but petition Ladner to clarify how he intended to adjust tax rolls.

Unfortunately, Gex said, a state law passed some time ago gives the assessor for Bay St. Louis power to assess taxes for the combined school district including Waveland and Bay St. Louis.

"If he tells us to go to hell, we'll just have to go to hell," Gex said.

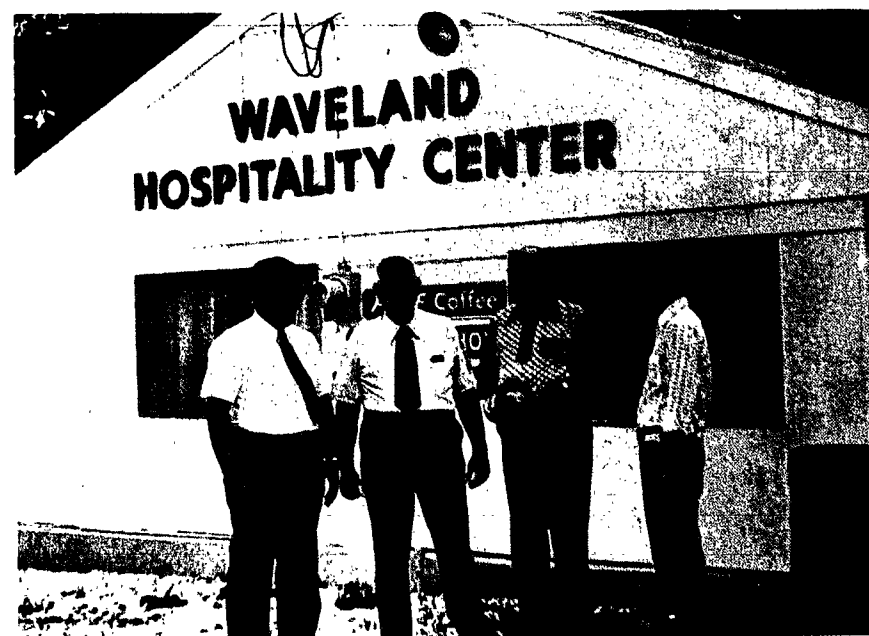

"All we've got right now is a bunch of jibberish and the proof of the pudding won't be seen until the changes are on the books," he added.

In other business the board voted to accept the unit bid of Pearl River Paving Co., Picayune, totalling approximately $50,000 for placing a double bituminous surface on four city streets.

Preparation of the base for the four streets which includes Hurley, Jeff Davis, Sears Ave. and St. Joseph will begin as soon as the city executes a contract and work order expected this week.

The streets were deleted from the city's contract with Howard L. Byrd and Wilson Inc.

The city also authorized payment of $36,945 as partial payment no. six to Wallace Industrial Constructors of Mississippi, Pascagoula, for work on the sewage treatment facility.

hot coffee and information will be dispensed to travelers on Highway 90 now from the Waveland Hospitality Center. ### A special gift

Four-year-old Shellie Turner hands her Dad, Dave Turner, a flower she picked for him in the garden. Doctors told the Turners when Shellie was born that she would never walk, and the miracle of the Turners' hard work and perseverance in teaching Shellie to walk has inspired the creation of the Crippled Children Center, to be built in Kila Lorain Gilbert, free of charge to all crippled children. The public is invited to ground breaking ceremonies and a seafood jamboree Saturday at 4 p.m., at the site behind Annunciation Church. (See story inside A-section.)

Council gives go ahead to street contract

The Bay St. Louis City council voted at a recessed meeting Monday to proceed with a city-wide street surfacing contract, after deleting some 15 streets from the original contract to bring the overall cost within available funds.

Mayor Warren Carver initially objected to entering into the project, saying that the city had only $71,000 of the estimated $86,000 cost -- of blacktopping the streets, most of which are in the annexed area.

He felt the project would "be throwing money away" the Mayor said, as there were neither water nor sewer lines in the annexed area. Engineers had advised him that most of the blacktopped streets would have to be torn up and rebuilt in the near future to install the two services.

Commissioners Clarence Ladner and Lucien Kidd cited citywide development and expansion as incentives to provide more than "dusty streets to prospective residents".

Ladner said "people in the annexed area have been sadly neglected since annexation... and we should give them something". Ladner also noted what he termed a difference of opinion among engineers as he was advised by city engineers that it is no longer necessary to install sewer and water lines down the middle of the street.

"I am more concerned with the people who are there now than with those who may be coming," Ladner said.

Some $62,122 could be cut from the original cost estimate, Commissioner Kidd pointed out, by eliminating some of the streets on the list and retaining those of greater priority. He had inspected the listed streets and advocated cutting the following: Kellar, Sycamore, Victoria, Seventh, Gladstone, Huckleberry Rd., Lincoln, Cadillac, Buick and Mercury Drives, Bouslog, Cedar Pt., Ruella, State and the portion of Drinkwater Rd. to the North of Highway 90.

A motion was passed to perform the work on all streets listed with the exception of those mentioned above.

In an unrelated matter, the council was agreeable for Ladner and council attorney Joseph Gex Jr. to attend a seminar in Atlanta Aug. 4-6, at which a $11.2 billion aid to municipalities bill, recently signed by President Ford, will be discussed.

A resolution to convey a portion of real property behind the Junior High School to the city school system brought an objection from the Mayor. The school system has requested the land for use as a school bus parking lot but Mayor Carver urged granting a 25-year lease rather than relinquishing the property. The matter was turned over to the city attorney for further study.

A question from a Waveland resident for clarification of the projected tax assessment adjustment for the school district brought a discussion of the matter.

Ladner, who is city tax collector, referred to Sec. 21-33-29 of the Mississippi State Code which requires an annual revision and equalization of assessments for the city, to be accomplished in September or October.

The tax roll revisions have not been done in some time, Ladner noted and are badly in need of the required inspection. He is in the process of correcting the rolls now in adherence of the law as well as to meet the school budget.

The city will advertise in the paper when the rolls are ready, he stated, and any property owner in the two cities has the right to appeal to the council. If not satisfied by the council's decision, Ladner said the property owner can then appeal to the circuit court.

Inflation is crushing middle America

by Adoree Shortle
Echo News Editor

Senator John C. Stennis Friday night told a joint meeting of the Picayune and Hancock County Chambers of Commerce that inflation is crushing middle-income Americans and to "destroy this middle group, we finally destroy self government."

Expressing concern for "the average hard-working family," Stennis said, "we're paying the price now" for the spending of the "New Frontier, Great Society and many others." Stennis detailed the causes of inflation and outlined programs presently underway to seek solutions to the problem.

Stennis said President Ford is "well prepared" for his new role and "has character, the foremost essential." However, Stennis warned that President Ford must maintain a "firm and strong hand of leadership at the top that will drive hard when necessary to maintain and put over essential policies."

In order to conquer inflation and other problems, Stennis said public officials must be "willing to do the hard things and tough it out" when the political road gets difficult.

Stressing the enormous pressure a President must endure and the need for extensive help in "the biggest, toughest, difficult job in the world," Stennis expressed the hope that he could help President Ford "in maintaining a firm and strong hand at the top."

Stennis said the "greatest problem" facing the American people "is the Constitutional question, but being sure to make ends meet in this time of inflation." The Mississippi Senator said the basic concern is with the rising costs of items such as "bread, pants, shoes, or electricity, as well as the cost of money, interest, and the difficulty of raising capital for business operations."

He said the "seeds of inflation" were planted years ago with "the idea that the Federal government can and must be the Big Brother to everybody."

Stennis said the impact of such spending programs compounded by such situations as the energy crisis and unemployment, resulting in a rise that "is no longer a trickle, it is a flood." He said the "seeds of inflation" were planted years ago with "the idea that the Federal government can and must be the Big Brother to everybody."

However, Stennis warned, "Just as a 'Big Brother' federal establishment can't be everything to everybody, neither can the government solve this problem alone."

"The American people collectively can be the driving force in bringing prices in line."

Stennis charged that we must reverse an "almost nationwide slowdown in rendering a full day of work for a day of pay." Issuing high praise for Mississippians, Stennis said, "It is known nationwide... our employed people give a far better and more thorough job than many other workers across the country."

Stennis urged the state to "work and peace monitoring agency plans for a domestic peacekeeping summit conference" to be held in Jackson, Mississippi, in the near future.

All of these measures, Stennis said, will require give and take on both sides, but at least it will be in the right direction.

In what he termed "a personal remark," Stennis said he had prepared special legislation to help the middle-income family.

Commission continues fight

Once again Chairman Norman A. Johnson, Jr., of the Mississippi Public Service Commission, on behalf of the Commission and Commissioners D.W. Snyder and John L. Dale, has carried the fight for Mississippi electric customers to Washington.

Last week he appeared before the Senate Committee on Commerce along with other officials and utility executives. Pointing out that high electric bills in Mississippi are the result of federal actions, and particularly of the Federal Power Commission, Johnson made two strong recommendations: That Congress enact legislation to (1) place a surcharge on the contractual quantities of gas taken from Mississippi utilities by the Federal Power Commission curtailment order equivalent to the cost of substitute fuels, with the proceeds from the surcharge to be used to reimburse the affected consumers, and

(2) prohibit federal agencies from adopting or enforcing rules which impair or abrogate contracts. (This would stop federal agency orders which have operated to cut off natural gas supplies from electric generating plants.) Johnson said, "The Federal Power Act places a primary duty on the Commission (Federal Power Commission) to insure a reliable, dependable supply of electric energy to the Nation at a reasonable cost. Its action in natural gas curtailment have fallen far short of this duty in Mississippi."

Further, he said, "The charges for electric service in Mississippi have become highly unreasonable and unless the Congress can grant relief, our best estimate is that the problem will grow progressively worse."

Speaking for the Commission, Johnson emphasized that Mississippi is located near the largest natural gas fields in North America and that it was prudent and reasonable for electric utilities to enter into contracts for long term use of this gas in electric power plants. He said that the Federal Power Commission gave its approval to these arrangements years ago when it gave its assent to certificates for facilities between interstate pipelines and Mississippi utilities.

"We must point out," he emphasized, "that the Federal Power Commission in its setting of priorities committed serious errors in judgment in ignoring the human needs of residential customers, hospitals, and public service customers of Mississippi electric utilities affected by the FPC curtailment program." Johnson made a strong plea for operation of the free, competitive market in solving the nation's energy needs as contrasted with restrictive federal controls which have played havoc with Mississippians' electric bills.

Water level discussed by DuPont reps

Possible depletion of residential water wells by the proposed DuPont plant in DeLisle was a matter of major concern at a public meeting Tuesday night in Bay St. Louis.

DuPont officials Larry Kniffin and Joe Lojewski addressed the relatively small group of citizens who turned out for the meeting at the Coast Electric auditorium.

The discussion was prompted by Kniffin's statement that the manufacturing plant would draw a minimum of five million gallons of water daily for its operations. Two main wells would supply 2,500 gallons of water per minute for the plant, Kniffin said, one of which was completed last week.

Roy Baxter, Pearlaring mariner owner, asked what the company would do when the water supply is depleted in that area. The water table has been dropping a foot each year at the 600-900 foot level, Baxter pointed out, asking if the excessive drain could produce a water shortage.

Kniffin said company studies have shown that there is no water shortage at the present and that the problem in Harrison County is not "the amount of water but how it is taken from the ground". Other wells would be drilled to monitor the water level, he assured the group.

Regarding local employment at the plant, which will be located adjacent to the Oblate Fathers property on the Bay of St. Louis, Kniffin said the majority of personnel will be hired locally and that an employment office will open at least six months before the plant is completed. Projected completion date for the $130 million plant is now set at late 1977.

Wages will be comparable to top wages in the area, the men stated, but added that the plant would operate a non-union shop.

Kniffin and Lojewski spoke at a second public meeting last night in Gulfport and a other states and agencies in utilization of the site.

"The greatest thing you've done is make those who have come here want to stay," he said, predicting a "greater and greater future" for the NASA installation, renamed National Space Technology Laboratories.

Later in an exclusive interview with the Echo, Stennis spoke of his last night conversation with former President Nixon and said the conversation "was a personal matter," although he admitted that the former President had nothing "bad to say, it was all good . . . he spoke mostly of his family".

Stennis was hesitant in his endorsement of Governor Nelson Rockefeller as a vice-presidential appointee, but noted Rockefeller's abilities in the current inflation. "That's in his field," Stennis said, adding humorously, "anyone who can be governor of New York for 14 years and hasn't been flattened out must be OK."

In a more serious vein, the Senator said the new Congressional Budget Control Law will have no effect on the nation's present revenue sharing program. The program has been legislated for a five-year period and has still two more years to run, he noted. Any future federally funded programs of benefit to local political subdivisions and municipalities will be carefully considered however, to curb any unwarranted spending.

MORE MURDERS

Serious crime rose by 15 per cent during the first quarter of the year, continuing the upward trend in the last quarter of 1973 and murder and assault both increased 7 per cent, according to the FBI. —

Weekend violations result in 11 drug arrests

A total of 11 youths were charged with possession of marijuana and paraphernalia by Hancock County authorities over the weekend in a series of separate arrests.

Arrested and charged early Saturday morning with possession of marijuana, possession of a controlled substance (seven barbiturate tablets) and possession of drug paraphernalia were Stewart Fontaine, 21, of Indianapolis, Ind., and Frank Boss, Jr., 24, of New Orleans.

Both were arrested by Waveland police Ronnie Ferrell after their car was stopped for speeding on U.S. Highway 90 about 2 a.m. Saturday. Bond was set at $250 for Fontaine and $200 for Boss.

Also arrested Sunday morning by Ferrell were two Slidell juveniles and two adults, also on Highway 90. They were charged with possession of marijuana.

Still confined at Hancock County jail Monday was Lorrin Gainey, 19, of Hammond, La., whose bond was set at $200. Released under $275 bond was Preston J. Little, 19.

Preliminary hearing for all four youths is pending in Waveland city court.

Five Louisiana persons were arrested by Hancock County deputies and charged with narcotics violations Saturday after their vehicle was stopped for a traffic violation on I-10.

Special investigator Ronnie Peterson said officers noted marijuana seeds in the car and a further search turned up about an ounce of marijuana and various articles of drug paraphernalia.

Charged and released on $350 bond were Robert E. Leake, 20, New Orleans; James T. Eisenhardt, 27, New Orleans; and Marguerite M. Core, 19, New Orleans.

William K. Upshaw, 20, New Orleans, driver of the vehicle, was released on $410 bond. He faces an additional traffic charge. Vincent G. Cecier, 26, Delcambre, La., was charged with carrying a concealed weapon in addition to the narcotics charge. His bond was set at $450.

Emerson Mangum, whose oils hang in galleries and homes in every state in the nation, describes technique used in Rougeau's Landing to Mrs. Rosemary Smith, City-County Memorial Library employee. A number of Mr. Mangum's works are now on display at the library.

Library exhibits works of Mississippi artist

Although many of the works of Emerson Mangum are admittedly influenced by his early years on a Mississippi plantation, his paintings now on display at City-County Memorial Library are of varied types.

The viewer's eye may first be caught by an elderly black woman whose bandana and clothing contrast brightly with the walls of her white-washed abode or a group of black children on a Sunday morning. There are also landscapes, scenes from the Vieux Carre, flowers, in fact almost any subject appears to tempt Mr. Mangum's artist.

The artist, a native of Meriden, Miss., began his career in colorful Greenwich Village back in the '30's and received his first national recognition as the recipient of several art awards for village scenes.

World War II temporarily interfered with his artistic pursuits when he served with the United States Infantry.

Following his discharge, Mr. Mangum migrated to New Orleans, living, of course, in the French Quarter, where he took a series of refresher art courses. He became co-owner of the internationally famous Bourbon Galleries which features hangings in natural settings instead of the traditional "lined up" look.

The artist then decided that he'd had enough of the big city rat race and purchased a home on St. Joseph Street in Waveland having been told by friends of its bucolic charm and serenity.

He is a bachelor and lives and works in his attractive studio-home with two medium sized dogs of indeterminate ancestry and affectionate natures.

Mr. Mangum's works are for the most part brightly colorful and conventional in style. His trees look like trees; his people like people.

Oil is his medium and he is perhaps best known for his palette knife technique as many works are executed entirely in this manner, although he also uses brushes in many paintings.

His popular appeal was illustrated by one library patron who said: "I can't decide which picture I want to buy. I really want every one I see."

MMAS answers 7 calls

Mobile Medic Ambulance Service responded to seven calls during the week of Aug. 27 to Aug. 28.

The ambulance service answered a call to 503 State Street in Bay St. Louis where Louis Saucier, a stabbing victim, was transported to Gulfport Memorial Hospital where he was listed in moderate condition.

The ambulance responded to two accident scenes Saturday Aug. 24.

In a separate accident on Hwy. 603, Jack Necaise was treated for minor injuries.

In another accident Sunday Mr. Sibil Welch was treated for moderate injuries after her auto was involved in an accident at Hwy. 90 and White Bayou.

Four persons were treated for minor injuries Monday Aug. 26 after an auto accident at Hwy. 90 and Beach Road. Injured persons included Connie, Althea and Kimberley H. pkins and Greer B. John.

An emergency transport was made between Hancock General Hospital and Keeler Air Force Hospital Monday for Mrs. Mildred Story.

Five persons were treated for injuries Tuesday in an accident on Interstate 10. Injured were John Ackers, Stanley Ackers, Linda Ackers, and Shawn Ackers, and Joyce Ladner.

Shellie's miracle inspires Crippled Children Center

by Adoree Shortle

"Shellie will never walk," doctors told Dave and Marty Turner four years ago.

Shellie, the Turners' fifth child, was born with Spina Bifida, a birth defect which results when the vertebrae fail to enclose the spinal cord.

Other doctors were even more discouraging, predicting possible mental retardation and a dismal prognosis for the child's future.

Still, last December Shellie walked.

Four years of work, love and perseverance paid off when, on Christmas day, the beautiful bright-eyed little girl pulled herself up on a piece of furniture and took her first hesitant steps - alone.

Shellie's almost miraculous accomplishment and subsequent progress is not only a tribute to the indomitable spirit of her parents who were determined that she would not be relegated to an existence of abnormality, but is an inspiration to other parents of crippled children.

The Turners were living in Lexington, Ky. when Shellie was born. When she was just five days old, Shellie underwent the first of nine operations at the Shriners' Hospital there. Over a period of time, she received the equivalent of about $18,000 in medical treatment and physical therapy at the famous hospital, at no charge to her parents.

Dave, who is affiliated with a financial consulting firm in New Orleans, moved his family to a home in Kiln last October. Realizing the lack of therapy facilities in the coast area for crippled children, Dave worked swiftly to organize a Crippled Children Foundation, which was incorporated last January.

He provided a section of his own property, located behind Annunciation Church, to the Foundation for the building and set about organizing volunteers and donors for the facility.

"The response from the people of Hancock County as well as along the coast has been absolutely marvelous," he said. "Working strictly on public support and volunteer help, the Center will have only one paid staff member, the physical therapist."

Lorain Gilbert, who received her degree in physical therapy from the University of Utah and lives in Ocean Springs, will supervise all therapeutic work at the Center and will train volunteers to work with the children.

"Being confined to a wheelchair or a bed, isolated from the rest of the world, is damaging to a child's personality as well as his body," Dave said. "Every child should have the opportunity to be with his peers, to go to school and to get outdoors, even if in a limited way."

At the Center, living skills will be taught along with physical therapy and as the child progresses, the parents will be brought in to learn from Mrs. Gilbert how to work with him at home.

The Center will be open free of charge to all children with absolutely no discrimination of any kind, Dave pointed out, and with no restrictions.

"We will accept any child we can help, no matter what his family income or circumstances and no matter where the family lives."

If getting the child to the Center is a problem, transportation will be provided by a corps of volunteers - also at no charge.

Dave is president of the Foundation which is seeking additional members as well as names of parents of children needing therapy.

A gala ground breaking and seafood jamboree is scheduled for Saturday at 4 p.m. on the site behind Annunciation Church.

Everyone is invited to the affair and special invitations have gone to elected officials of the Bay and Waveland as well as the county supervisors. Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver will be guest speaker for the ground breaking.

Bob Lyons, a Kiln resident, will be the cook for the seafood jamboree, which will provide for $1 apiece, "all the seafood you can eat," along with soft drinks and other refreshments.

Robert Himmelsbach, a New Orleans contractor and secretary-treasurer of the Foundation, is in charge of construction of the Center. Weather permitting, Himmelsbach said, the building will be completed in late fall.

Parents of crippled children or anyone interested in working with the Foundation, may call 467-6413 for further information. Contributions or written requests may be addressed to Crippled Children Foundation, Route 1, Box 259, Bay St. Louis, 39520. A New Orleans contact number is 322-2800.

LEARNING TO READ
Learning to read at several Los Angeles, California, elementary schools no longer means nervously awaiting your turn to read aloud before the class. Older children tutor younger ones in reading, and the results have proved beneficial to both.
Called the Tutorial Community Project (TCP), the program, originally funded by the Ford Foundation, was begun six years ago at the Pacoima Elementary School, and has since expanded to four other schools.
Classes are paired - children in upper-grade classes tutor children in the first three grades for the entire year. The tutors are taught some basic principles of learning and how to apply them in a tutorial setting; they also learn, largely through role-playing, specific tutoring procedures to follow.
The tutoring itself involves a great variety of activities - creative writing, dictating stories, reading plays, sharing books, playing games, creating picture books.

A shower of balloons

Governor Bill Waller and Mrs. Waller enter the Jackson Coliseum Saturday night under a shower of thousands of balloons, creating a spectacular entrance at the Governor's Mississippi Spectacular. An estimated 7,000 special guests and honorary colonels attended the six-hour gala, which started with a reception and dinner and ended with a musical show by some of the country's leading country music artists. Waller recounted the accomplishments of his administration and called for continued support in programs which are "moving the state forward and which have brought us up from bottom place" in the states. A lot can be done in the home stretch, he reminded the crowd, promising continued improvements in the 35 percent of time left in his term.

Presenting the 84 mpg Volkswagen.

Since all the car manufacturers are conducting their own mileage tests these days, we at Volkswagen thought we'd conduct one too.

So we modified our body—and our engine. And, of course, we got someone who didn't weigh much to drive.

To and behold, we got 84 miles per gallon! Ridiculous? Nobody normally drives like this? Of course. That's precisely our point.

Nobody normally drives like most of those tests you're seeing.

Drugs and your health

by John F. Russell, M.D.

Marijuana continues to be the most talked about, argued about, questioned about drug today. It is also the most misunderstood and at the same time most heavily researched. Over $4 million of federal grants this year alone are earmarked for research on marijuana.

Yet this is not a new drug. As far back as 2700 B.C., marijuana was known to the Chinese Emperor Shen Neng and recommended for constipation, gout, and even "absent-mindedness" along with many other medical problems. In many parts of India, marijuana was and is used in religious ceremonies. Still we know little about it or the possible dangers.

In the 1930's Earl A. Towell, a most powerful anti-marijuana crusader, wrote a book entitled "The Weed of Madness." This book caused such a stir that a campaign was started to place marijuana under control. As a result, the marijuana tax act was passed in 1937 and a heavily slanted, scare-tactic campaign was initiated against marijuana.

Such movies as "Reefer Madness" were produced whereby the main character, after one took a puff of grass, turned into a wild-eyed rapist and killer. This movie is now played for laughs, but was believed to be true at that time. Perhaps it is memories of this type of scare tactics that has the over 40 generation so concerned over the issue of marijuana, while the young set just laugh at the thought of violent reaction to pot. They know it is much more likely that the heavy pot smoker will fall asleep rather than engage in physical activity. But still the questions in this regard continue.

A reader in Bay St. Louis asked "Does smoking marijuana lead to stronger drugs?"

Once again the answer is ambiguous. With the latest figures on marijuana smokers at 28,000,000 in the U.S., it is obvious that they aren't all going to turn into heroin addicts. In fact statistics show that only 3 percent of marijuana smokers end up as junkies.

However, marijuana is illegal and therefore must be purchased other than over the counter in a drug store. This puts the buyer of marijuana in contact with an individual who, in 9 times out of 10, is dealing in other drugs as well.

Marijuana itself does not cause one to desire a stronger drug; on the other hand the pusher may very well persuade him to try something stronger. Also it is possible that the effects of the marijuana on an individual with an abuse prone personality will entice him into "going on to better things."

Research has shown there to be a definite correlation between heavy marijuana smokers and users of LSD. Once again, this is not necessarily a cause and effect situation.

It may be a desire for greater escape coupled with a persuasive dealer. It may be the availability of stronger drugs or just a curiosity to try something new. But smoking marijuana does not lead to heroin any more than drinking milk leads one to alcohol.

It is the strength or weakness of the individual, in every case, which determines his drug use or abuse.

Exercise in obsolescence

The need for sound, intelligent and progressive leadership in the state of Mississippi has never been more clearly demonstrated than on July 18, 1974, when the State College Board voted to continue their policy of closed door meetings. The door was not only closed, it was slammed in the face of 2½ million Mississippians who provide and entrust the same College Board with $100 million dollars annually to manage their institutions of higher learning.

To describe this action of this College Board as ill-advised would be charitable. Its action has been described as unabashed pompous arrogance, which can only be enjoyed by the security a 12 year term can provide. In effect, what this College Board has accomplished is to provide a set of ground rules which read, "We are accountable to no one - not the Governor, not the legislature, and certainly not the people; the concept of academic freedom will be as we will it to be; and no one dare intrude on our privacy for the period of our respective 12-year terms."

In reality, what the State College Board has done is to provoke state officials, the Legislature, and 2½ million Mississippians to pry open that door to determine what they are trying to hide. They have issued a blanket invitation to the people of Mississippi to file court actions forcing disclosure of administrative actions of this Board. By so doing, they are asking for more national notoriety which Mississippi does not need.

They are forcing the Legislature to pass legislation for open door meetings and to take other steps toward the enactment of a constitutional amendment to re-constitute the tenure and membership of the State College Board.

They are rejecting the right of the people to be informed through the news media, their only available means of communication.

And finally, they are provoking action on the part of citizens organizations; civic groups, PTA's, Chambers of Commerce, college students and faculty members to accept their challenge of autocratic sovereignty.

In his plea for open meetings, Governor Waller judiciously pointed out the essential need for privacy through executive session on some matters to protect the best interests of individuals, personnel, legal and fiscal matters. We concur.

We hope the State College Board will reconsider and change its policy of closed door meetings - this futile exercise in obsolescence.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

Time, they say, heals all sorrow and fades all joy into memory. We are so busy in living today that we often forget that the folks of long ago had their joys and sorrows, just as we have.

The yellowed newspapers of 150 years ago reveal some of those emotions, and we can only try to imagine the happiness that came to some and the grief of others.

There was, for instance, the marriage of Miss Mary Ann Saterfield, daughter of Jonathan Saterfield, of Hinds county, to Joseph H. Hutson, on Thursday evening, April 1st, 1845, as reported in the Jackson Southern Weekly Reformer. Can't you just picture the gaiety and the laughter and singing on that occasion? Then contrast it with the mourning in the home of W. T. Forbes of Yazoo City on a Sunday late in February, 1847, when Mary Forbes died, leaving her husband and six children, or with the grief of George and Sarah Fleming of Calhoun City in December, 1843, when their two little girls, aged 7 and 3, died within a week.

Back in the 1820's, marriage took more than a glib "I do". First, the groom had to have the consent of the girl's parent or guardian, and a responsible bondsman who would guarantee that there was no legal impediment to the marriage; all this, and a statement of consent by the parent, was certified by the register of the court, and then a marriage license could be issued.

A typical entry in the registry was "David Clark deposed and saith that Jerry Putman and his wife gave their consent for him to join in marriage with their daughter Calla Putman, Allen Parks, bondsman." We remember visiting the home of the Shaffers near Houma a few years ago and being shown there the bond put up by General Braxton Bragg for his marriage with Miss L. Ellis in 1861.

Chances of long survival of children in those days were low; there are scores of notices of the deaths of young boys and girls. Richard Finucane, aged 9 months, and his mother, died on the same day, August 18, 1842; George, the husband and father, married the Widow Carly, less than a year later, in July 1843. Little Jereline Dupree, aged 14 months, died in 1845, recalling the inscription on a child's tombstone in Massachusetts:

"I was so soon
Done for,
I wonder what I was Begun for."

The death-age of people in their 30's and 40's, especially of women, was high. On the other hand, some of the old-timers were surprisingly spry. Mrs. Letitia Dickson of Jackson was 87 when she died in 1841, and Mrs. E. A. Peak was 83 when she married H. Henninger in Marion county in 1855. Mr. Henninger was 104!

Times change, joys and sorrows come and go; but whatever form they take we can be sure of one thing, that others before us have known them too.

BYGONE DAYS

3 YEARS AGO...

Many proud, brave, stout-hearted signs are going up. One placed on a pile of rubble announced "We shall return". Others "Back in a little while" and "Out for lunch", etc. Admittedly, Camille was a demanding, expensive, ill-tempered, heart-breaking hussy - but she really wasn't all bad! Like nothing else could have done it - disaster has united these people. It has been the great leveler - the equality establishier! We are a people in a declared disaster area. We are with a common purpose. Our task is to rebuild Bay St. Louis - and rebuild it better!

10 YEARS AGO...

The county's public school population is up 187 pupils over the same time last year.

25 YEARS AGO...

The Bay-Waveland Yacht Club was christened Friday afternoon with the raising of the traditional tree atop the frame work of the building.

50 YEARS AGO...

It is not often one is able to witness a dramatic production written by a local author. Such was the privilege on last Friday evening when a large and cultured audience assembled at St. Stanislaus Auditorium and witnessed the production of "Doll Land", a musical comedy in five acts, composed and directed by Mrs. J. Arguedas, accomplished young resident of Bay St. Louis.

SHOCKING!

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor,

In this city of Bay St. Louis, there lies beyond us a serious problem involving the safety of each and every individual who ponders our streets. Hazardous driving conditions have resulted from "his" problem, leaving many possibilities for tragic happenings. The problem is our city's Police Department.

My intentions are not to criticize the men of the department, nor is it my intention to blame them for the existing situation. I solely intend upon expressing my opinions why our police department is and has been dilapidated, and what I, along with many other people, feel should be done to correct this oversight.

Perhaps the major factor which has been ignored is the salaries which are paid to our policeman.

A policeman who starts on his new job will only earn a salary of $500 per month. I ask you the people, could you live on $6,000 per year? No one could successfully survive from such an income, especially if there is a wife and children involved. And, unfortunately, the only good salary increase the new policeman has to look forward to is a raise to $650 per month, following completion of five years service to the department.

Another factor, one which results from the low salaries, is the quality of the policeman on duty.

What qualifications back these men? The only qualification is their knowledge of loading and unloading a pistol, and occasionally shooting for target practice.

Some of these men have had actual difficulty in writing proper citations for automobile accidents involving three or more vehicles.

These policemen need to have substantial training in procedures for "on the street patrolling", and proper knowledge of all paper work involved.

But, how can we have this type of policeman with the present salary rates? Would you want the responsibilities involved for such a small fee? No, I wouldn't, and I am sure that the present officers feel the same.

I am not suggesting that the majority of the present officers be weeded out and terminated from employment. I only ask for the consideration of the city officials and the people of Bay St. Louis to reform our present department by increasing salaries, and adding to the skills of our present officers adequate and useful training, which will increase the quality of each man. If, after such thorough training, any officer does not perform to the expected capability and effort required from his skills, he should be terminated from employment and allow room for someone qualified to assume his responsibilities as an efficient policeman.

As a result from the present situation, look around you and see for yourself the deplorable conditions of law and order in this city.

People like you and I violate the driving laws of our streets and roads. We park on the sides of streets, restricting the flows of traffic, especially in our business areas, to only one open lane.

These conditions are most annoying and disrespectful to the rights of other drivers who are deprived from having access on a street which their taxes have produced for them. Traffic citations should be written for and submitted to the drivers of these illegally parked vehicles, and strongly enforced in our traffic courts.

Speed limit signs should be placed on all streets and strictly enforced by our policemen.

Littering is not only an abuse to our city, but it is an offense to nature. Proper fines should be submitted for such actions of nuisance.

Above all, the rules of driving should be used correctly by all drivers, and if abused, should be corrected immediately by a policeman.

I ask you now, if we were to pay qualified officers to protect our city and its people, would we have the present conditions?

Do you feel it hypocritical if on an occasion one of our present officers may pull you over for improper driving habits, when he alone, on duty in a patrol car, fails to use proper turn signals, or come to a complete stop at a stop sign?

This is a major reason why we feel our police department needs upgrading and renovating.

I could go on and on with examples and suggestions, but it is time now for every citizen to review these existing conditions and think seriously about the future of our safety and protection through the effectiveness of our police department.

We all have to remember the saying, "If you give a dance, you've got to pay the band."

The dance is long overdue, simply because we just haven't paid the band.
Sincerely yours,
Henry J. (Chip) Prevou, Jr.

Dear Mr. Hall:

I would like to use this means to make a suggestion to the schools that have students who ride bicycles to and from school.

My son attends North Bay Elementary. Last year his bicycle was stolen from the school and on the second day of school this year his bicycle was vandalized. In the case of the stolen bicycle, I was told by the school officials that it was better not to ask about the bike in the hope that who ever rode it off might ride it back again.

I was also told that this happened from time to time and they (the school officials) would watch out for the bicycle and who ever had taken it. I also reported this theft to the police department. The bicycle was never recovered.

In the case of the second bicycle, I was told that if the culprit was caught, he would be made to pay for repairs. However, I have little faith that this will ever come to pass.

Many children ride bicycles to school. For many of them this is their only means of transportation to and from school. I feel that the school should take some action to prevent theft and vandalism of these bicycles.

My suggestion is this: Why couldn't there be a fenced area for the bicycles? A gate with a lock would be installed and only the children who ride bicycles be admitted. It would not have to be a large area, just large enough to accommodate the bicycles.

Perhaps this suggestion would prove to be too costly, or perhaps the school officials and or board could come up with a better idea. In any case, I think something should be done to protect these children's property.

Yours truly,
Carol Powell

The Selective Service Director has directed that even though the President's authority to draft men into the military service has ended, men 18 years of age must register for Selective Service.

They have 30 days before and 30 days after their 18th birthday to register. I will quote in part what the S.S. director said about this obligation.

"Many of our young men may fail to register when they reach 18 years of age because they are unaware of their responsibilities to Selective Service. It would be unfortunate if a young man should break the law because the proper information has not been made available to him."

"FAILURE TO REGISTER IS A VIOLATION OF THE LAW AND CAN RESULT IN PROSECUTION BY THE DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE."

"The parents and friends of all young men who reach 18 should remind them of their responsibility to register with Selective Service at the nearest local board or with a Registrar for the Selective Service System who resides in the young man's community", the director said.

The Veterans Service officer located in the Court House is one Registrar, Gibson Lee Carter, counselor at Bay Senior High, Bay St. Louis; Mr. James Thriffler, counselor at St. Stanislaus and Mrs. Rebekah T. Kennedy, counselor at Hancock North Central High School are also registrars.

Late registrants are required to write statements explaining why they were late. Registrants are asked to please bring the name and address of two people other than members of their immediate household, who will always know where they can be found. Registrants must also bring some means of identification for the registrar to identify them, such as a drivers license or a birth certificate.

Special safety course brings discount

The Mississippi Insurance Commission has announced approval for one of the state's largest insurance companies to begin offering a rate discount for people who complete a special safety course.

USF&G Insurance Company, which writes approximately 12 percent of the automobile insurance business in Mississippi, was given approval to offer a 10 percent premium discount to motorists who pass a Defensive Driving Course approved by the National Safety Council.

Mississippi Safety Council President W. P. McMullen, Jr., hailed the action and said his organization is "delighted to know one of the major insurance companies has recognized the Defensive Driving Course as an excellent accident prevention tool, and we are looking forward to working with this company and Mississippi's outstanding Insurance Commission."

The Insurance Commission, of which State Insurance Commissioner Evelyn Gandy is ex officio chairman, is composed of A. Q. Greer of Holly Springs, DeLoach Cope of Hollandale and George

Curry of Hattiesburg. Prior to USF&G's approval, four other companies had requested and been given the nod to offer the lower rates. They are American Fidelity Insurance Company, Excalibur Insurance Company, Southern Insurance Company, and Dairyland Insurance Company.

The Defensive Driving Course is being conducted by the Mississippi Safety Council, Post Office Box 10394, Jackson, Mississippi, 39206, and is also offered by the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

Information concerning the program may be obtained from the Mississippi Safety Council, the Mississippi Highway Patrol, and the Mississippi Federal Safety Council, Milner Building, Jackson, Mississippi.

Earlier this year, the entire staff of the Mississippi Insurance Department underwent defensive driver training under the auspices of the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

Miss Gandy said she is "impressed with the benefits of this course. It is also an excellent method for people to improve their driving skills and help reduce accidents, as well as a good means of cutting insurance costs."

According to available information, approximately 10,000 Mississippians have completed the course during the past 36 months, which makes them eligible for a possible insurance discount.

The Defensive Driving Course, which is sponsored by the National Safety Council, is the largest volunteer, in-depth safe driving program ever undertaken in this country. Since its inception on a nationwide basis, the safety council's program has reached nearly three million drivers in the United States.

The course consists of eight one-hour sessions on various aspects of traffic accident prevention. Taught by safety council-accredited personnel, instruction consists of discussion on Preventability of motor vehicle accidents. Principles of defensive driving.

The six situations of the two-car crash.

Standard accident prevention formula.

Preventing run-off-the-road accidents.

Alcohol, drugs, and driving.

Backing, fixed object and grade crossing accidents.

Driving the expressways.

Course instruction is accompanied by a series of eight ten-minute films

AILA accepts Mize ring, pin designs

Design for a professional ring and lapel pin, executed by Gulfport landscape architect Jack L. Mize, has been accepted officially by the American Institute of Landscape Architects.

Mize's designs came as a result of a decision by the governing board of the organization, made during a 1973 convention in Florida, to create an official ring and insignia carrying the newly adopted logo for the AILA Foundation.

Mize, who is an international director of the organization, submitted his designs at the international convention this year in San Francisco. The ring and lapel pin were finally accepted in July at a board of directors meeting in St. Louis.

Mize is chairman of the registration board for the 1975 convention, scheduled for New Orleans. He is also chairman of the National Membership committee and a member of the National Public Relations committee.

Druggists must report thefts

Kenneth W. Fairly, Director of the Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics, issued a plea to individuals in legal possession of controlled drugs and narcotics to report any attempted theft or burglary to the Bureau.

Under the Uniform Controlled Substances Act as amended by the 1972 legislature.

The owner, manager, practitioner, or any other person having possession or custody of controlled substances or of premises on which controlled substances are stored or located, whether or not such person is a registrant under Section 41-29-125, is hereby required to report to the Bureau any theft, burglary, or robbery, or ATTEMPTED THEFT, BURGLARY, OR ROBBERY of such premises or substance.

Letters from the Bureau were mailed to every drugstore in the state to clarify the druggist's responsibility to report all burglary incidents, whether just an attempt was made, or drugs actually stolen.

FAIRLY STATED THAT THE significant trend in drugstore burglaries is apparently due to the reduction in the availability of street drugs.

Under state laws, a penalty can be waged against any person who does not comply in reporting the disappearance of controlled substances or any attempted burglary.

The Bureau announced that drugstore burglaries have increased 157 percent from April 1 through June 30 this year when compared to the same time period in 1973.

Army reservists to receive back pay

Brigadier General George E. McGovern, Jr., Commander of the Army Reserve's 377th Support Brigade in New Orleans, has announced that hundreds of present and former Reservists in Louisiana will soon receive checks for back pay.

Payment of about $4.8 million in back pay will be made to an estimated 300,000 present and former Army Reservists nationwide, said General McGovern. Anyone who attended unit meetings or Annual Training, or who was on active duty for training with the Army or one of the other military services at any time during the period from Oct. 1 through Dec. 31, 1972 is eligible.

Congress authorized the back pay following a successful court action against President Nixon's decision in 1972 to withhold a pay boost for the three-month period. The increase, originally scheduled for all military personnel starting Oct. 1, 1972, did not actually take effect until Jan. 1, 1973.

Under the procedures worked out by the Office, Chief Army Reserve, those entitled to back pay because of service with an Army Reserve unit during the three-month period and who are in a Ready Reserve unit now do not have to file a claim. Their units will be responsible for processing payments and they should receive their back pay in their next quarterly pay checks.

MEC polls lawmakers on teacher pay and property equalization

A recent survey of lawmakers made by the Mississippi Economic Council showed that almost 90 percent of the members of the state legislature support equalization of property assessments, and almost 80 percent favor an increase in teacher pay.

The survey covered questions relating to teachers' pay, ethics legislation, equalization of property assessments, election laws, homestead exemption, public kindergartens, the Mississippi Highway Commission and the state's constitution.

Some 30 percent of the members of the Legislature responded to the mail poll, a response accepted by most poll experts as a valid sampling of opinions.

Seventy-five percent of those responding expressed opposition to a special session, and 79 percent agreed that teachers should have pay hikes.

Almost half — 48 percent — thought teachers' pay raises should be at 10 percent. Thirty-four percent suggested 15 percent hikes; 11 percent said teachers should receive increases of up to 25 percent; and 7 percent favored an increase of more than 25 percent.

NO TAX INCREASE

A fifth of the respondents said they would not support tax increases in order to pay higher salaries for teachers. One lawmaker cautioned, "If teachers receive additional pay because of inflation, the 34,500 other full-time state employees deserve consideration."

He added, "Teachers have received pay raises from the state level in excess of the rise in the cost of living."

Another emphasized that teachers should ask for raises without "threat of a strike."

And another commented that "Mississippi must be competitive with other states on teachers' salaries, just as any other business must be competitive in the labor market."

Then he added, "The schools will be in better condition when the local people support them as they should."

But another legislator suggested, "It is difficult to establish a system of financing public education on a basis of 'equal dollars' without the primary source of funds coming from the state level. Reliance on local districts for substantial support dollars tends to create a differential in school dollars in a direct relation to the wealth of the local district."

But 77 percent of the lawmakers said funds for any annual banquet tonight. There will be plenty free to eat and drink. Oh, yes, don't forget to bring your camera."

"You've got to come to our annual banquet tonight. There will be plenty free to eat and drink. Oh, yes, don't forget to bring your camera."

"You mis-spelled my daughter's name and I want a correction on the front page."

"We voted to make you our publicity chairman."

"I know it's on a Sunday, but it's our annual reunion and someone ought to cover it."

"My uncle's brother is a big advertiser and I was wondering if..."

"I'll try to get my ad in before the deadline next time."

"You're playing favorites with my opponent in this race. Among other things, you're placing his ads in the best positions on the best pages."

"Where did you get your information? We didn't want that in the paper."

"Our club isn't getting as much publicity as other clubs in this town. What have you got against us?"

Bills providing for mandatory equalization of assessments have been introduced in the past several sessions of the Legislature, but lawmakers have declined to enact any such measures.

Surprisingly, then 88 percent of the legislators responding to the MEC poll said they favor equalization of property assessments, as required by the constitution. One said equalization "will soon be forced on us."

QUALIFIED ANSWERS

On the subject of ethics, 71 percent of the House and Senate members said they would favor ethics legislation requiring disclosure of campaign donations; sources of finance; periodic financial worth reports by public officials, including legislators; and registration of lobbyists.

But some qualified their answers. One commented that honest officials would make disclosures but that many dishonest officials "would continue the present trend."

Two suggested that "holding public office does not make private finances public business" but said they would support legislation promoting higher standards of ethics.

A House member indicated he would be willing to support disclosure of sources of income but not net worth, and another said he would support ethics legislation but struck through the part of the question which included legislators.

In other responses: Ninety-three percent said they favor efforts to clarify the state's election laws.

Seventy-one percent support granting of homestead exemption by mail application rather than continuation of the present requirement of having every applicant appear at the courthouse.

OPPOSE REPEAL

Eighty-two percent expressed opposition to any effort to repeal legislation enacted in 1974 granting full homestead exemption to persons over the age of 65, an act which some say will cost local governments up to 20 percent of their total revenue without reimbursements from the state.

And lawmakers responded favorably on the question of public kindergartens. Fifty-six percent favored public kindergartens with attendance on a voluntary basis while 44 percent opposed such kindergartens.

Revision of the organizational structure of the Mississippi Highway Commission has been a subject of considerable discussion among legislators over the past two years.

In the MEC survey, 50 percent of the respondents said they favored a change in the present method of selection of the three-member Commission — election of three Commissioners, one from each of three districts.

But there was a difference of opinion as to the change to be enacted. Twenty-six percent of those desiring change preferred an appointed commission and 24 percent, an expanded commission, with selection by popular election.

Sixty-one percent said they would support a legislative study of the need for state government reorganization, but several suggested that enough studies have been made and the time has come for action.

Two thirds of those responding expressed an opinion that Mississippi's constitution is in need of revision.

Thirty-nine percent said only minor changes are needed while 28 percent said major alterations are necessary.

Youth hostels still best travel buys

Beginning October 1 outdoor lovers can purchase magic keys to 4500 of the lowest priced, overnight accommodations in the world. The key is an American Youth Hostel membership pass which can be bought for as low as $5 if you are under 18 years of age and $10 if over. Frank D. Cosgrove, executive director of American Youth Hostels in making this announcement said, "Our hostel cards will now be good for the calendar year ending December 31. However, those buying their cards on or after October 1 will be able to use them until December 31, 1975, 15 months instead of a year. With this new policy AYH joins the 47 national associations throughout the world who are members of the International Youth Hostel Federation and have the same hostel membership expiration term."

Health and safety are maintained. To add to and round out hostel claims for the convenience of travelers, AYH also charts supplemental accommodations which charge somewhat higher rates for additional services but otherwise adhere to AYH standards.

"There was a time," Cosgrove said, "when people going abroad could buy hostel cards overseas at lower cost, but since last year Americans, and Canadians too, cannot purchase their passes at lower rates than what they could pay here in their own countries. In fact, it may cost as much as $5 more to purchase their keys to hostel pleasure and low cost abroad. The idea is that you buy your hostel pass at home and help establish more hostels in your own country."

American Hostel headquarters in the U.S. are in Delaplane, Va. 22025

Kissinger 'magic' probed

By EDWARD NEILAN
Copley News Service

Anyone seriously interested in comprehending the depths and complexities of contemporary foreign affairs must be conversant with the moods, idiosyncrasies and intellect of Henry Alfred Kissinger.

Students of Asian affairs, especially, will find incisive and valuable insights about America's secretary of state in a new book, "Kissinger," by Marvin Kalb and Bernard Kalb (Little Brown; $49 pages; $12.50).

For many observers the China breakthrough — President Nixon called his own visit to Peking in 1972 "the week that changed the world" — has been Kissinger's finest hour and a piece of diplomacy that has given the United States important leverage in almost every other diplomatic arena.

Kissinger did not master the use of chopsticks until his fourth visit to Peking, the brothers Kalb tell us, in but one of many charming bits of trivia in the book.

More illuminating is the report that a Kissinger gaffe, referring to China as a "mysterious country" in his first meeting with Premier Chou En-lai, actually broke the ice between the two nations.

Chou said there was nothing mysterious about China and that Kissinger only thought it was mysterious because he knew so little about it.

On that note of frankness, talks began that eventually resulted in the Nixon visit to China and the warming of relations between Peking and Washington.

Some other incidents related by the authors help flesh out what is already known about the beginnings of U.S.-China rapprochement.

— Despite the joking and signals of good will, there was a certain uneasiness detected about Kissinger's November, 1973, visit to Peking. The Chinese were concerned about Shui men, the Chinese word for Watergate. After all, Mao and Chou had bet on increasingly close ties with the United States as a counterweight against the Soviet Union and "they feared that Watergate might undercut the President with whom they had negotiated."

DAMAGED BY MOTHS — Dead and dying trees near Oregon-Washington border show result of tussockmoth devastation. Damaged trees pose threat of fire and spreading disease to other parts of forest. Some 2,000 volunteer members of Pacific Northwest four-wheel drive clubs will work this summer to rehabilitate the forests.

Miss Huston is wed to Stephen Poindexter

Mt. Pleasant, Tenn., and Mrs. C.M. Birdshaw and the late William Russell of Tusculum, Alabama. The groom's grandparents are Mrs. Dorothy Varyan, Bay St. Louis, and Dr. Paul F. Orr of Perryburg, Ohio, and Mrs. Lamar Poindexter and the late Mr. Poindexter of Chattanooga, Tenn. The Rev. Charles R. Johnson, rector Christ Episcopal Church, performed the 6:30 p.m. ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her brother, Robert Cecil Huston. The bride wore a delicate floral gown of pink organza over crepe de chine. The fitted bodice, sashed at the waistline, featured a scooped neckline with an antique lace ruffle over pink organza. The circular skirt fell into a ruffled border. A band of fleur d'amour, sweetheart roses and baby's breath formed her headpiece. She carried a bouquet of daisies, sweetheart roses, baby's breath and fleur d'amour complemented by pink satin streamers.

Robertson Jr., Oxford, Miss. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Poindexter home in a tropical poolside setting enhanced with green foliage and a profusion of flowers. The bride's mother chose for the wedding a full length gown of silk organza in shades of turquoise, lilac, pink and white and a lilac throated white orchid corsage. The groom's mother received guests in a silk chiffon gown with a fitted empire bodice and a full circular skirt in layers of aqua and mint. A yellow cymbidium orchid completed her ensemble. For her wedding trip the bride wore a Chinese silk screen pants suit with matching accessories. The couple will make their home on the Gulf Coast.

The Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia contains 183,000 indexed subjects. It has over 7,000 illustrations—including a full-color World Atlas.

It's bound in sturdy, elegant covers.

It's written in clear, simple English. (The Funk & Wagnalls is a family encyclopedia, designed to help students, not stump them.)

Read what Saturday Review says about the Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia:

"Can a good encyclopedia be bought in a supermarket? Decidedly, if it's the handy-sized Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia...the number of illustrations and maps (more than seven thousand) are remarkable achievements, especially when you consider the bargain price."

—Saturday Review of Literature

Senior Citizens Happenings

Bay-Waveland Senior Citizens had their monthly birthday party Monday at the V. C. J. Center with approximately 70 in attendance. In addition, 25 patients came from the Gulfport V.A. Hospital to enjoy the festivities.

Betty Carroll of Waveland, who recently retired from the entertainment field, kept the party going with her spirited songs. First she honored each branch of Service with appropriate songs, then everyone joined in a Song Fest. Those celebrating August birthdays were honored, after which birthday cake, punch and coffee were served by volunteers Mesdames Diebold, Fazende, Galivan, Sauer, and Sulzer.

Hugh Miller, as always, was in charge of the sound effects. Today at noon the Senior Citizens of the Kiln area will have their monthly birthday party at Kiln VFW Post 6285. Betty Carroll will again be on hand with her lively entertainment.

Last Thursday the Arts and Crafts Class was hosted by the Arts and Crafts Class of Lakeview Presbyterian Church, Canal Blvd., New Orleans. They were taken there aboard the new Hancock County Senior Citizens' Maxiwagon driven by Don Mauffray. After lunching at Lentz's, the group motored downtown to the Heart of Town Senior Citizens Center at Maison Blanche, where they enjoyed singing, dancing and New Orleans style coffee.

Betty Jane Myers of Betty Jane's Ceramics, Bay Shopping Mall, has started a ceramic class which meets every Wednesday morning at 9:30. Any interested Senior Citizen wishing to do so may still join this class.

Starting Thursday, September 5, Mrs. Agnes Leroy of Waveland is starting a patchwork quilt at V.C.J. Center. This also is set for 9:30 a.m. every Thursday. She is asking any of you Senior Citizen ladies who are interested to please join this Quilting Bee even if you have never quilted before. There is plenty of cutting out and stitching to be done before quilting can be started.

Then, beginning September 6 at 9:30 A.M., Mrs. Cecile Bienville has volunteered, as she so ably did last year, to conduct a Christmas tree ornament-making class. Anyone interested in making, or learning to make these ornaments is asked to please join her.

Mrs. Emily DeMontluzin will return September 17 at 3:30 p.m. to start another French class. Those Senior Citizens who wish to learn French are asked to please be here on that date. Probably many of you think that you just couldn't learn a Foreign language; but how will you know unless you try?

Last but not least, we always need donations of prizes - costume jewelry, handicrafts, ties, socks, handkerchiefs, etc. - for our Bingo parties. Also some good homemade cakes. Anyone wishing to donate is asked to please call Donald Mauffray, at 467-9291, and I will be glad to come pick up whatever you have.

American students complete tour de force in France

A group of 10 high schoolers returned to the Bay this month, greatly enriched by a five-week tour of France, under the auspices of St. Stanislaus School.

Accompanying the students on the Vichy study trip were Miss Eva Trouilly and Mrs. Helen Currie of Pass Christian.

The group left Kennedy Airport in New York on a charter flight July 9 bound for Geneva, Switzerland.

There they spent three days in residence in a lycee in Annemasse, France, a suburb of Geneva, and visited Mont Blanc at Chamonix.

A bus trip took them to the Mediterranean coast with a drive through the French Maritime Alps to Nice. Three days were spent in Nice, swimming, visiting Monte Carlo and watching the fireworks on the beach on Bastille Day.

The trip from Nice to Vichy was through Avignon, Grenoble and Lyon.

Vichy is in the beautiful Auvergne Mountains in the heart of France. Famous as a spa since Roman times, Vichy's unique facilities include a lake in which to sail and water ski, a summer festival of theatre and concerts, and the famous thermal baths.

In Vichy, the group studied at the Lycee Presles, taking an intensive course in French language and civilization.

Also on the itinerary was a weekend trip to the Chateau country in the Loire Valley, with an overnight stay at the University of Orleans. This trip coincided with the last lap of the Tour de France which was from Orleans to Paris.

At the conclusion of the session three days were spent in Paris, and then a chartered 747 was taken from Le Bourget Airport in Paris to Kennedy Airport in New York.

Participating in the study tour were Melissa Gray, Baton Rouge, La.; J. J. Gremillion, Pass Christian; Letitia Haas, Bay St. Louis; Sarah Keene, San Jose, Cal.; Lisa Puckett, Gulfport; Ann Schmidt, Pass Christian; Kevin Seeger, Bay St. Louis; Mary Elizabeth Welch, Gladstone, Mich.; Rene Whittington, Waveland; and Kathy Wood, Pass Christian.

Home loans available

The Farmers Home Administration has 20 major loan programs, all designed to help carry out a national growth policy for rural America.

This policy involves upgrading the standards of living and housing for any individual or family which lives in rural areas.

In the Housing Act of 1949, the U.S. Congress knowing that not all rural families are able to build, remodel, or buy a new dwelling specifically designed a loan program to aid families or persons to repair or improve their dwellings. The loan program referred to as a Section 504 housing loan provides funds at a one percent interest rate to families which are unable to get credit at the conventional sources and rates. Senior citizens, low income families, or families and persons on a small fixed income usually qualify for this loan.

The loan is especially suited to repairing or replacing roofs and structural supports, adding a room or bathroom to an existing dwelling or providing a convenient or sanitary water supply.

The maximum funding limit is $3,500 with a 10-year repayment period.

The Initial Housing Element of the Research and Development Center in Jackson has provided the following information on Hancock County. There are 7,330 dwellings in the county, of which 3,146 are dwellings in a substandard condition. Some 1,250 of these substandard dwellings are said to be in such condition that they are economically unfit to repair or improve. However, of the remaining 1,896 dwellings there are probably a large number that could be improved or repaired with a Section 504 loan.

Any family or person interested in such a loan should contact the Farmers Home Administration at 503 Main Street, Bay St. Louis, MS or call 467-9008.

Under the big top will be an array of entertainment featuring local entertainers Chuck Ryan, Mac Taylor and many more as well as a special appearance by New Orleans radio personality Eric Tracy. Tracy will act as the third Commodore since the rodeo was established.

Game booths of every description, operated by local, civic and charitable organizations, as well as food and drink concessions, will be featured under the tent.

For the fishermen participating in the competition there will be over $10,000 in prizes consisting of Heddon fishing tackle, Coleman equipment, Jetco trolling motors, Plano tackle boxes, trophies and cash.

In addition to the regular competition, there will again this year be a junior division running the first three days of the rodeo.

Overall prizes will be given for the first, second and third place catches in lemon fish, king mackerel, red fish, red snapper, black fish, speckled trout, flounder, jack fish, dolphin, bonita, tarpon, spanish mackerel and blue fish.

In the fresh water division prizes will be given for bass, bream, white perch and gar.

Prizes will also be given to the King and Queen Fisherman for fresh and salt water in the adult and junior division to be crowned during the rodeo as well as separate prizes for the largest fish caught and most pounds of gar and speckled trout respectively.

Daily prizes will be given in addition to overall prizes for the first three days of the rodeo.

Governor proclaims Water Safety Holiday

Governor Bill Waller has proclaimed the Labor Day weekend as Water Safety Holiday in Mississippi. In his proclamation he urged "All who go near the water to acquire those skills essential to their own safety and that of others and to apply them carefully."

Through observance to be successful it will require the cooperation of all persons and organizations concerned with the safety of our citizenry.

The Governor pointed out that each year over 100 Mississippians loose their lives while engaged in water activities and that the fatalities can be reduced if those who engage in water sports will emphasize water safety precautions.

The Mississippi Association of Life Underwriters and the Mississippi Boat and Water Safety Commission along with Governor Waller are encouraging everyone to exercise caution in, on or around the waterways of our state.

Ladner's preparing Mississippi special

...first place a la Long Island Duck

by Dan Barber
Echo Sports Editor
Long Island may never be the same. Folks thereabouts probably ain't too familiar with Ladner's Friendly Inn or even give much thought to the virtues of socking a softball down in Mississippi on a hot August night.

But all that's liable to change come Saturday night when Ladner's, Mississippi Class A Softball Champions, is prepared to descend like a plague of locusts upon the heads of all nonbelievers in the nationals Aug. 30 thru Sept. 3.

Ladner's, who gained a berth in the prestigious national tournament by virtue of their undefeated sweep of the state tournament last week, will be one of 50 teams competing for the national Class A title.

The red hot Ladner team stormed through the state play winning six straight games to capture the state title.

Ladner's will meet North Carolina in its first game Saturday after drawing a bye for the opening day Friday.

Team members are Henry Bonney, Vic Green, O.V. Ladner, Jimmy Loiacano, Tommy Hayes, Mike Lee, Lonnie Ladner, Billy Taylor, Al Clark, Ricky Boyel, Randy Ladner, Shorty Karl, Henry Develle, Waymon Carr, Teddo Thomas, Walter Gagnon, Joey Bok, and manager Jeep Ladner.

Seligman making no promises

by Dan Barber
POPLARVILLE—New head football coach Harvey Seligman is making no promises for his 1974 Wildcats other than saying the team will "show" for every game, but insiders are giving the new Pearl River Junior College coach a fighting chance at a winning season.

Seligman, 40, who replaces former head coach John T. Russell, who resigned several weeks ago to enter private business, faces the unenviable task of trying to plug gaps in an offensive backfield shotgunned by the loss of 24 starters due to graduation. Seligman also admits the Wildcats will be very short on players with linebacking experience.

The new head coach who moves into the head slot after only one year as an assistant at PRC is a native of Brooklyn, New York.

His coaching experience includes West Marion High School in Columbia, Miss.; East Central High School at Wade; Defunick and Pensacola, Fla. and Northside in Lafayette, La.

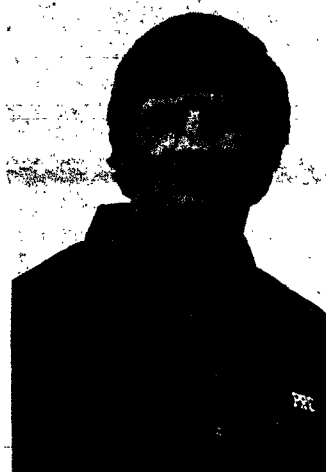

A graduate of Pearl River and USM where he received BS and MS degrees in physical education, Seligman played ball at both schools as well as playing for the United States Army later.

The Wildcats who finished first in the South division of the Mississippi Junior College Conference in 1973 and second behind Gulf Coast Junior College for the state title, compiled a 9-1-1 record last year.

Seligman predicts that Gulf Coast will repeat as the state champions in 1974.

Backing up Seligman will be new line coach David Earl Johnson, 24, former Pearl River All American lineman, who resigned his post at Forrest County Agriculture High School to accept the assistant's spot.

Johnson played center and nose guard for the Wildcats in 1969 when the team went undefeated and untied to win the state championship. For his performance during his two junior college years, he was named most outstanding lineman in Mississippi, All State, team captain and was a selection on the prestigious All American team.

At USM, he played two years at defensive end and was named a graduate assistant upon graduation.

Taking charge of the defensive backfield will be assistant coach Herbert Morris, 37, a five year veteran of the PRJC coaching staff.

Seligman and his staff are placing their highest hopes in returning lettermen Terry Adkins, Larry Tyrone and Mike Powers.

County Agent's Notes

John W. Smith, County Agent

CUT DAIRY FEED COSTS usually the cheapest milk-making feed. This is still true. Home grown forage is today despite the high fertilizer costs. Plan right now to carry out a good forage program for this fall and winter.

Plant at least an acre and a quarter of winter grazing for each cow of the large breeds and three-fourths to one acre for each cow of the smaller breeds. Don't forget some additional acreage for the growing replacement animals.

Harvest and properly store every bale of hay and every ton of silage. If you are storing silage in a trench, be sure to cover the silage after packing with polyethylene. It will save a cubic foot of silage for every foot of cover used.

If you do not have enough hay or silage planted or drouth cut your yields, try to locate and buy extra hay. If you have storage, buy corn or sorghum silage standing in the fields from a neighbor. This will cost more than home grown but will still likely be cheaper than buying high grain rations this winter.

SOYBEANS

Just about every year growers begin asking about abnormal looking soybeans. This is probably because stresses show up more readily during the late fruiting period of the plants.

Some of the abnormal symptoms that you may be seeing from now until harvest include:

1. Bright yellow spots on the upper surface of leaves with gray mold on lower surfaces. This is downy mildew. It is common in late season when high temperatures and high moisture occur. Expect no yield reduction.

2. Areas within fields where plants appear stunted with few pods. Often there will be crinkled, slightly darker leaves in the top. This is due to low pH (soil acidity).

3. Unthrifty plants, early death and stalk breakage, leaves are yellow or browning from the margins. This is potash deficiency.

4. Plants lighter green than normal and failure to fill row middles. This is phosphorus deficiency.

5. Short plants, yellow leaves, some death of plants, pronounced symptoms in scattered areas of fields, plus an abnormal root system. The answer is likely cyst nematode.

6. Dying or dead plants with white mold on lower stem at soil surface. This is southern blight.

7. Stalk breakage and lodging two or three inches above the ground. Likely cause is the three cornered alfalfa hopper.

Getting lime on pastures now will help assure that plenty of lime spreader trucks will be available for use on crop land this fall after harvest. On most Mississippi farms, lime is the number one investment. It will pay off big.

HANCOCK COUNTY LIVESTOCK SHOW

Hancock County Livestock Show is scheduled for October 14-19.

Water safety is urged

Water Patrol Officer Joe Seal reminds everyone to exercise safety and caution during the long Labor Day weekend.

Thousands of people will be boating, swimming, water skiing, sailing and fishing during the long weekend and safety must come first. Last year 154 people lost their lives in water accidents in Mississippi.

"With the waterways being crowded during Labor Day weekend safety and courtesy will be necessary for everyone to avoid serious injury and possible death," Officer Seal said. Be careful not to overload your boat and make certain that your personal flotation devices are available and in good condition.

BOATING A BIG FISH

There's nothing more frustrating than losing a large fish right at the boat. It happens often and is usually caused by the fish being "green," or still full of fight.

Many anglers, in the excitement of hooking and playing a big fish, fail to realize that it takes time to wear down a fish to the point that it can be safely handled. Here are some tips from Mercury outdoors' fishing experts that will help you boat the next big fish you catch.

Be sure your equipment is in top condition. Test the reel to see that the drag is set at the right tension, and will function properly when it's needed. Inspect your line guides for worn places which could weaken monofilament line, and check the line itself for damage.

When a fish strikes, raise the rod quickly and firmly to set the hook. Never let slack into the line. With a large fish, it's sometimes possible to turn him away from snags and other underwater debris by pumping the rod in slow motion. Don't jerk against the fish; that will only pop the line. If your fish goes to the bottom and sulks, it sometimes helps to strum the line like a guitar. The resulting vibrations will cause the fish to move and you can then begin heading him toward the boat.

State Farm person to person health insurance

It can make you feel better.

At State Farm, person to person health insurance reviews that old-fashioned idea of personal attention. Yet it helps protect against today's soaring medical costs. It can even make sure you get money to help meet those extra hospital expenses. Or an income if you're disabled. Let me show you how.

BWYC Backwash

BOB BOH MEMORIAL TROPHY - Saturday evening a large group of friends and relatives gathered at the club to pay tribute to John Robert (Bob) Boh, a long time resident of Bay St. Louis and a charter member of Bay Waveland Yacht Club. Harry Chapman spoke briefly about Bob Boh, stating that he had assisted in the construction of BWYC 25 years ago and participated in the racing program from its beginning. He was a gentleman and a fine sailor, and in addition to many other sailing accomplishments, he was a member of the Bay Waveland team who won the last official GYA Fish Class Regatta in 1969.

Mr. Chapman explained the interesting design and purpose of the trophy, which will be a perpetual trophy to remain at Bay Waveland Yacht Club to be sailed for each year by the six top Bay Waveland Expert skippers in the Sir Thomas Lipton Elimination round robin. Mrs. J. Robert Boh made the presentation to Commodore Ray Stieffel.

At the time of the dedication of this beautiful new trophy, the competition for it was well under way, as the first three races were sailed Saturday. Chuck Breath won the first race in the brisk easterly breeze, which steadily increased as Woody Stieffel won the second race and Marc Eagan took the third.

Sunday the wind intensified to a gusty 30 mph as the crews sailed the remaining three races. Marc Eagan was the winner of the first race Sunday, and Woody Stieffel won the last two races to become the first winner of the BOB BOH TROPHY.

FINAL STANDINGS:
WOODY STIEFFEL - 32 1/2 points - Crew Gordon Boh and John Gordon.

BUBBY EAGAN - 27 - Crew Ellen Eagan and Chris Stieffel
MARC EAGAN - 26 1/2 - Crew Cindy Stieffel and Ed Turnipseed

CHUCK BREATH - 20 1/2 - Crew Kay and Mary Kergosien

BUZZY HEAUSLER - 17 - Crew Tommy Heausler and Ann Stieffel

HARRY CHAPMAN - 11 - Crew Elizabeth and Amy Chapman

The first four have earned their place as skippers on the Bay Waveland Lipton team and will defend the GYA Championship at Southern Yacht Club over Labor Day Week-end. Heausler and Chapman will be alternate skippers.

ALFONSO JUNIOR

REGATTA - Gulfport Yacht Club hosted their Junior Flying Scot Regatta on August 24 and 25. Edgar and Randy Santa Cruz and Rod Stieffel skippered for Bay Waveland with Dennis Stieffel crewing and earned fourth place.

BAIL THE BILGE was a very memorable event at the Club Saturday night. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. David Lansden, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kane and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Uram.

LADIES LUNCHEON - Guest speaker at the Ladies Luncheon on Wednesday, August 21, was Ms. Bettye Drury, Interior Decorator from D.H. Holmes Co., Lake Forest. A beautiful display of home furnishings was arranged by Ms. Drury, who spoke on the history of oriental rugs and new trends in home decorating.

LADIES AUXILIARY BOARD MEETING - 8:30 p.m. Friday, August 30. The Ladies Auxiliary general membership meeting has been postponed from Tuesday, Sept. 3, to Tuesday, Sept. 10 at 5 p.m.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON CHALLENGE CUP REGATTA - August 31, September 1 and 2 at Southern Yacht Club, New Orleans.

Freshmen vying for starting berths

Twelve months ago, the 28 freshmen members of the Ole Miss football team were accustomed to first unit roles at their respective high schools.

This week they've donned armor to challenge for spots on a much higher plane. And after a half-dozen sessions in full gear, almost one-third of the yearling prospects appear headed for early combat. That, of course, means skipping a rung on the ladder of experience. But Reb coaches are hoping even more promising rookies will survive.

Michael Sweet, 5-10, 175 lb. speedster from Vicksburg, is currently the No. three split end candidate behind junior Bill Small and sophomore Carl Muse, ticketed for the back-up role here, is out, sidelined indefinitely with leg injuries suffered in summer construction labor.

Tall Curtis Weathers, 6-5, 205 lbs. of Memphis, is running third at the moment at the tight end slot. Two other offensive linemen, Talby Bevell, 6-2, 225 lbs. of Jackson and Wade Dowell, 6-1, 210 lbs. of Morehead, both are holding third positions. Bevell is at tight guard, Dowell at split guard.

On the other side of the ledger, Bryan Niebuhr, 6-4, 228 lbs. of Baltimore, Md., has advanced to the No. three post at right tackle behind All-SEC junior Ben Williams and soph Mike Pittman.

Kem Coleman, 6-3, 225 lbs. of Chamblee, Ga., is rated third at middle linebacker with junior Steve Smith and sophomore Randy White.

In the secondary, three freshmen have emerged with plus-marks. Willie Hux, 6-1, 180 lbs. of Jackson at left corner, Johnny Hatch, 6-1, 180 lbs. of Falkner at right corner and David Campbell, 5-11 1/2, 175 lbs. of Jackson at free safety have all drawn early third-team berths.

Mississippi guardsmen prepare for match

JACKSON, Miss.—The Mississippi National Guard Rifle and Pistol teams will participate September 7-14 in the 1974 National Guard Winston P. Wilson Championships at Camp Robinson, Arkansas.

The Mississippi National Guard's seven-man pistol team and 11-man rifle team will shoot in the fourth annual firing of the matches which determine the individual and team champions of the Army and Air National Guard in the United States.

The Mississippians will be competing for the top awards against National Guardsmen from across the United States.

More than 600 competitors from 40 states and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico participated in the matches last year.

The Mississippi Guard won four team and five individual awards at the 1973 National matches, named in honor of a former Chief of the National Guard Bureau. The state pistol team won first place awards in the .22 caliber team match and the .45 caliber service pistol match. The team finished third in the combat team match and third overall in team competition.

The rifle team members will fire the M-14 and the M-16 rifles during the week of competition, while the pistol squad members will be shooting the .22, .38 and .45 caliber pistols.

The Mississippians participated earlier this year in the First U.S. Army matches at Ft. Meade, Md., and F. Benning, Ga., firing against competitors from both the Active Army and Reserves.

Shooters in the military marksmanship program are broken into classes based on their skill levels established in competition. The classes are marksman, sharpshooter, expert and master.

Emergency livestock loans available

Financial assistance is available to many livestock producers who are suffering the effects of the recent decline in livestock prices.

Frank Shoemaker, FmHA County supervisor in Bay St. Louis, stated that his agency will guarantee bank loans to individuals, corporations, or partnerships engaged primarily in the livestock business.

Eligible applicants must be engaged in breeding, raising, fattening, or marketing cattle, hogs, sheep, goats, chickens, or turkeys, and must receive a majority of their income and devote a majority of their time to these operations. Applicants must own the livestock with which they are working.

Funds can be used only for essential agricultural purposes such as replacement of livestock, purchase of feed, or repair of facilities. These funds cannot be used to expand an operation.

Interested persons should contact their bank or other lender as soon as possible. The loan will be made at an interest rate and on terms determined by the lender. No interest subsidy is provided by the government. Loans cannot be guaranteed to farmers who could secure credit without the FmHA guarantee.

The maximum loan is $250,000. The repayment period may not exceed three years. Shoemaker stressed that no loan could be guaranteed after July 25, 1975.

He said that interested parties should contact their lender as early as possible because a minimum of several weeks would be required to process the application. An application received a day or two before July 25, 1975 could not possibly be approved by the cutoff date.

Mississippi hunters revive ancient art of bow hunting

Labor Day weekend is the next one coming up. It ends the vacation days of the summer months for most folks who spend the summers here. The kids will return to school and college students will go to college for the winter months. Fishing, skiing, swimming and other outdoor sports will practically end after Labor Day.

As for fishing, fresh water fishing, there is really better fishing during winter months than during the summer. The water is cooler, grass dies in the bayous and most bass are caught by trolling and underwater baits. Speckle trout are caught with plugs by casting and trolling. Specks are beginning to move in and should be up Jourdan and at Bayou Caddy, where there will be some real fishing, especially in the canals at Bayou Caddy when cold weather sets in. Fishing is done from the banks. No boat is needed to catch the speckled beauties. Catching red fish, flounders is no exception.

Just imagine, dove hunting starts in September which ushers in our annual hunting seasons. The mourning dove is a favorite with most hunters. The food of doves is almost all seeds, fruits and berries, so where these can be found doves also will be found. Start locating desirable fields. Don't put it off until later, if you expect some good shooting this season.

Among some of our local dove hunters are Dick Mestayer and sons, Harry Roman, Louis Decell, Hoke Ogden, Gay Garner and too many others too numerous to mention. Dove hunting is a wonderful sport. Prospects look good for a profitable season.

Jimmy Richard and Tommy Boudry of New Orleans came over for the week end to do some fishing. Both said they enjoy skiing but fishing is a better sport.

At last shrimp are being caught off the seawall down Cedar Point way. Folks with their lanterns made the beach look like Canal Street each night. The shrimp are not too plentiful but old timers at catching them reported a bucketful a piece. It is a good practice to chum them with smashed up clams, small hard crabs or dog food.

Gene Juaders has gone to Washington for a short stay. Can't wait to get back to go fishing.

Lt. Col. Howard Duff and the family left Monday for Colorado where they will be stationed. The boys of the family will miss fishing, crabbing, and even soft crabbing after a couple of weeks enjoying it on the Gulf Coast. Return soon folks.

Tuby Nacaise was telling me of the big mullets he has been catching. A cast net did the trick, he said.

George Hammer was among those catching shrimp last week. Kinder hard work and long hours in getting them, he claimed, but they are worth it.

Peck Mauffray has been a patient at Hancock General Hospital. Worrying about getting well and back to fishing. If he can't catchem, he can still eat 'em.

Don't be a litter bug especially where fishing spots are concerned. Most of the spots are made for our convenience. We can at least keep them free of trash.

It is so easy to put trash in containers that are provided for that purpose.

Again we want to remind those who are shrimping off the seawall down Cedar Point way to keep the seawall free of little fish that are caught in shrimp nets and other trash that is picked up. Litter bugs are good for nothing, not even catching fish.

Plan your fishing trip for Labor Day weekend systematically. Don't overload a boat. Don't take someone with you who can't swim without a life jacket. Don't drink while in a boat. Do it at home. It's much safer. A safe labor day weekend is much better than a tragic one. Ever think of that?

Hard crabs are still being caught most everywhere. They help to feed a bunch of kids and grown ups and are delicious eating. Crabbing from the seawall or piers is plenty fun for your guests. A piece of cord, fish heads or a piece of meat plus a dip net is all that is needed to catch crabs.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK — is Henry Carver, another of our Senior Citizens who has enjoyed fishing and hunting for a long time, and still does a little bit of both. Henry can give some good pointers on how to catch game and fish and is also good at shooting the bull with his buddies.

A drum and a half

The sight of people romping, wading, walking, fishing, sunning or just sitting on Bay St. Louis beaches is not an unusual sight. It happens all the time.

It's hardly a traffic stopper. But the sight of two stalwart young men, feet firmly planted apart on the grassy slope at the foot of Ulman Ave. and the beach, aiming long bows and lethal looking arrows at some object on the beach is - definitely startling.

For the past few weeks this is the sight that has slowed more than a few passersby on the beach drive.

Rick Kergosien and John Bufkin were patient with questioners. No, it wasn't a new way to gig flounders, nor were they clearing the beach.

They were practicing for weapon proficiency before opening of the deer season. Their weapons were long bows, five feet long with a 50-pound pull and "pod" arrows (untreated for target practice).

Rick, who started deer hunting with bow and pod arrows a year ago, explained that Mississippi is the only state in the country where it is legal to hunt deer and game with treated arrow tips. Hunting with bows is not unusual, he said, and is an increasingly popular sport throughout the states, but only in Mississippi can one use "pod" arrows, a more merciful but dangerous weapon.

The specially tipped arrows are dipped in a solution of 700 milligrams of muscle relaxer, which, when the arrow finds its mark, anesthetizes the animal within six seconds. It literally goes to sleep, painlessly, forever.

Using treated arrows, Rick explained, is considerably more humane, as it prevents wounded animals from eluding the hunter, and dying slowly and painfully in the woods.

Kergosien, who has done a good bit of research on the sport of bow hunting, said statistics show that of one million bow hunters in the U.S., only five out of every 100 bag a deer each year. Too many hunting with untreated

Fire one!

John Bufkin and Rick Kergosien, both of Bay St. Louis, look like something out of the dark ages as they practice with long bows in preparation for the opening of the archery deer season. Deer and game hunting with long bows and treated arrows is rapidly gaining in popularity in Mississippi, which is the only state to allow treated arrows.

arrows only wound their game, as do rifle hunters, and are unable to track the animal to kill it.

Bow hunting is far more exacting and difficult, he continued, and requires not only expert aim but excellent muscle tone. For that reason, he and Bufkin, who is new to the ancient sport, practiced several hours every afternoon for weeks to develop their skill.

Looking like two escapees from Robin Hood's band, the young hunters set at a target on the beach from the top of the steep slope at Ulman Ave.

The reason for the odd angle, Kergosien said, was that with bows one always can see a deer from a distance and with an acute sense of smell can detect the hunter at a distance too great to be effective with a bow and that with bows one always arrow. There, the hunter stations himself high in a tree and waits.

"I learned a lot by trial and error last year," Kergosien said ruefully. "The first thing you learn is patience. You have to sit motionless in a tree for a long time hoping a deer will come along - and often, one never does."

Another possible hazard is falling asleep in the tree, as he did after waiting all day, and waking to find a deer had passed right under him. Naturally, the deer bolted out of sight when Kergosien fell out of the tree.

Despite the lethality of the treated arrows, there has never been a recorded fatality in the state from hunting with pods, Kergosien stated. The hunter is probably far more cautious with pod arrows than with guns. He wears a leather shield on his left arm as protection from both the pods and the bow string and carries his arrows in a special holder on the bow rather than on his back as is traditional.

Cost of the special hunting bows, which are gracefully designed and extra heavy, ranges from $50 to more than $100. Kergosien and Bufkin both use Fred Bear bows, designed by Bear, who is considered one of the greatest bow hunters in the country. The well-known hunter has killed polar bears and an elephant with a bow and arrow, which takes a superhuman proficiency, Kergosien said.

The archery hunting season is longer than the gun season, but has the same limit of one deer. The archery hunter can, however, kill a doe as well as a buck. A special license and permit are issued for bow hunting which in Mississippi are good for all game.

Kergosien has returned to Ole Miss where he will continue to practice until the season opens, and Bufkin, who lives in the Bay and works at NSTL (MTF), is daily working for proficiency in one of the most ancient and today, most unorthodox sports.

Drownproofing

Next time you take a dip in the pool or swimmin' hole, take along a 15-pound chunk of iron for a little experiment. Swim to a spot about ten feet deep, hold the iron block out of the water and take a few deep breaths. You drowned, didn't you? In fact, you probably couldn't hold the iron block out of the water for any length of time.

Many people, boatmen included, make the same mistake, not realizing that the human head also weighs about 15 pounds. They insist on holding the head well out of the water constantly, although a person needs to breathe only once or twice per minute if he stays calm. Thrashing about, or merely treading water, a swimmer without some sort of buoyant article will tire in about 20 minutes and sink. Permanently.

There is a certain percentage of boat operators who refuse to accept the sound advice (and law) that dictates carrying a life preserver, vest or buoyant cushion. For them, and for everyone who goes near water, Georgia Tech developed "drownproofing."

Here are a few examples proving that drownproofing can keep you afloat: Sixty swimming students at Georgia Tech tried the technique for as long as eight hours without stopping. Twenty had their hands tied behind their backs and 20 more had their legs tied in a half bent position to make them useless.

The average quitting time was four hours and 40 minutes in the water and many made it the entire eight hours of testing (although they probably missed several classes). All were poor swimmers.

In the Pacific, a Navy

seaman fell overboard, far out at sea. For the better part of a week, he reportedly stayed afloat with no life preserver by using the drownproofing technique. During the day, he tried to signal search teams. During the night, he slept underwater. He had never learned to swim a stroke beyond the basic drownproofing technique.

Any person who can learn to be calm can learn to drownproof. Even if your body has no natural floatation (most humans, with the possible exception of hard-muscled athletes, have at least some floatation) you can learn to stay afloat with minimum effort.

For a lesson in drownproofing, contact a qualified instructor. The American Red Cross or a local YMCA may be able to help out or you can try contacting a college or high school swimming instructor. The technique is so simple, however, that many have learned it on their own, with the aid of a lifeguard friend.

The basic ingredient is calm, silent, slow motion. Especially lazy people have an advantage here, since they have been practicing slow motion most of their lives, but anyone can learn. The object is to use as little energy as possible and to waste no energy. Holding your 15 pound head above water, for instance, is wasted except for the few seconds every minute you need to take a breath.

Coast Guardsmen in basic training are taught this method.

(1) With lungs full, float face-down with the back of the neck just breaking the surface of the water. In fresh water, you may not break the surface much, but in salt water the body has more buoyancy and will float higher. Your full lungs will provide more than enough floatation, even for a natural "sinker." The above position is basically the "jelly-fish float" taught to youngsters. Arms and legs should hang freely, exerting no energy.

(2) Prepare for a downward thrust, using the arms or legs, a combination of one arm and one leg or all four limbs. Many people prepare for a variation of the breast stroke here, which is good if you can't float. Your legs should slowly move apart, preparing for either a scissor kick or a froggy kick. At the same time, raise the arms forward to the sides, whichever suits you. They will be used to thrust downward, similar to treading water, horizontally.

DO YOU HAVE A DRINKING PROBLEM?
